The incubator opened in 1999 with 12 emerging technology clients; today the facility houses more than 30 companies. Since its

In other news, President Hitt announced that on Tuesday, October 22nd, UCF hosted the final debate between gubernatorial candidates Governor Jeb Bush and Bill McBride. The debate was broadcast live on all NBC television affiliates in Florida and was moderated by NBC Chief Washington Correspondent Tim Russert. He thanked Dan Holsenbeck and his staff for the fine job they did in coordinating the event.

The announcement of the award was made at Internet World in New York City in October. In addition, he congratulated the UCF Society of Women Engineers for their great performance in 2002.
