WELCOME

Chair Walsh welcomed the board members and called for approval of the November 13, 2008, board minutes, which were approved as written.

Chair Walsh called on President John Hitt for opening remarks and introductions.

REMARKS AND INTRODUCTIONS

President Hitt announced that The Princeton Review listed UCF among its “Best Value Colleges for 2008.” The list includes 50 public and 50 private institutions chosen for their outstanding academic programs, low-to-moderate tuition and fees, and generous financial aid packages.

Hitt reported that National Merit Scholar finalists enrolled in 368 colleges and universities this fall. UCF enrolled a record 62 National Merit Scholar finalists, which places it 34th in the nation.

Hitt announced that in 2005 the Carnegie Foundation revised its classification system and introduced elective classifications. For its first elective classification, “Community Engagement,” the foundation created two categories, “Curricular” and “Partnership.” UCF was awarded classification in both categories. A team of 33 UCF professionals worked with Dr. Rick Schell on the application.

Hitt remarked that UCF was recognized as the 2008 Most Engaged Institute of Higher Education in Florida by Florida Campus Compact, an organization that promotes academic and civic engagement.

Hitt reported that UCF received two awards for service to the community at the annual Mid-Florida Business Hall of Fame event hosted by Junior Achievement of Central Florida. He was honored with this year’s Spirit of Achievement Award. A letter from President Bush bestowed the President’s Volunteer Service Award on UCF, a national recognition of UCF as the largest university partner of Junior Achievement in the world.
Hitt explained to the board that UCF’s leadership team continues to work on managing the budget. Should program reductions or eliminations be necessary, UCF will protect:

- the interests of students
- the talent and productivity of our faculty and staff
- programs of critical importance to Central Florida and its economy
- programs that enable us to attract and retain the brightest and best
- programs and activities that generate significant net income.

Hitt stated that he hoped to avoid implementing the plan, but prudence required the development of contingency strategies.

Hitt cited research indicating that class size has an effect on student success in skills classes, such as English and mathematics. Therefore, the university has decided to fund an initiative to support smaller classes in English composition and college algebra. English composition classes will be reduced from 27 students to 25 students per section. In a pilot study, eight sections of nineteen students each will permit an assessment of student-learning outcomes in sections with significantly fewer students. The University Writing Center will also receive additional support. College algebra classes will meet only once a week in lecture classes, with the remaining contact hours spent in lab classes that will emphasize faculty interaction and applied-math problems. He stated that even in bad budget times, the university intends to use some of its differential tuition dollars to create new opportunities for its first-year students.

Hitt recognized members of the UCF community. Dr. Jose Fernandez, dean of the College of Arts and Humanities, was appointed by President Bush to serve on the White House Commission on the Hispanic Museum, which will explore the creation of a national museum dedicated to American Latinos. Dean Fernandez was chosen because of his demonstrated commitment to the research and promotion of United States Latino life, art, culture, and history.

Dr. Rosalyn Howard, associate professor of anthropology, has been invited by the president of Senegal to join its Commission for History and Importance. Dr. Howard will assist in the planning and development of the 3rd World Black Art Festival to be held in Senegal in December 2009.

Dr. Erik Van Stryland has stepped down as the dean of the College of Optics and Photonics, previously known as CREOL, and returned to teaching and research. Dr. Van Stryland was named director of CREOL in 1999, and he later became the founding dean of the College of Optics and Photonics, the first such college of its kind in the United States. Hitt thanked Dr. Van Stryland for his outstanding service and dedication to the college and the university.

Hitt then welcomed Dr. Bahaa Saleh, Dr. Van Stryland’s replacement as dean for the College of Optics and Photonics. Dr. Saleh received a B.S. degree from Cairo University in 1966 and a doctorate from Johns Hopkins University in 1971, both in electrical engineering. Most recently, he has been professor and chair of the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering at Boston University. He is a recipient of the 2008 Distinguished Service Award from the Optical Society of America.

Hitt welcomed Dr. Marwan Simaan, the first National Academy of Engineering member to join the UCF faculty, who has been appointed interim dean of the College of Engineering and Computer Science. Dr. Simaan joined UCF in Spring 2009 after a 32-year career at the University of Pittsburgh.

Hitt announced that the Employee of the Month for October was Kathy McGovern, a printing manager in Business Services; the Employee of the Month for November was James Michael Reaves, a senior broadcast-engineering technologist in the Office of Instructional Resources; and the Employee of the Month for December was Debra Urban, an executive administrative assistant in Student Development and Enrollment Services. He asked the audience to join him in congratulating all of these outstanding members of the UCF family.
